Report Of The Royal Commission On Chinese And Japanese Immigration

Canada

The debt we owe Chinese Canadians - The Globe and Mail 8 Sep 2016. The Chinese head tax was levied on Chinese immigration to Canada. In 1884, Macdonald appointed the Royal Commission on Chinese Immigration to heard testimonies from 51 witnesses, most of whom gave negative reports. In 1988, the Japanese Canadian Redress Agreement was signed by Historical Reference to discriminatory legislations towards Chinese. Excerpt from Report of the Royal Commission on Chinese and Japanese Immigration: Session 1902. Cost of clearing heavily timbered land - Chinese part in this.